MAKING IT EASIER FOR PLANNERS AND PUBLIC HEALTH OFFICIALS TO WORK TOGETHER

The Florida Chapter of the American Planning Association (APA FL) received a grant from the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention to build cross-sectional relationships between planners and public health officials. These funds are being used to create a platform to build partnerships and foster collaborative efforts. As a result, APA FL is pleased to announce Plan4HealthyFL.org as an online resource and forum dedicated to addressing the social determinants of health and the built environment. This platform will:

- Link issues with area experts.
- Foster digital and in-person collaborations.
- Build local, regional, and state capacity.
- Develop interdisciplinary practices.
- Make Floridians healthier!
